BOB SABA'S WORK RECOGNIZED

ONE OF TOP TEN TEACHERS IN COUNTRY

The Wilmington High School teacher, who, four years ago this December, organized the school into a "Night at the United Nations", an event that achieved international recognition, has been named as "one of the top ten secondary (high school) teachers in 1962" by the Board of Directors of the Lincoln Museum, in Springfield Illinois.

Robert Saba, Wilmington High School teacher of Social Studies, is to leave shortly on an all-expenses paid trip to Fort Wayne, Indiana, where he is to be the guest speaker on August 15th, at a dinner at which he and nine other High School teachers will each receive a Plaque of Distinction and a $1500 cash award.

Outstanding Teacher

Saba was notified by a letter from the Lincoln Life Insurance Company, which company is the principal underwriter of the Lincoln Museum.

The letter congratulated not only Saba, but the Town of Wilmington in having such an outstanding teacher.

The roly-poly teacher has a classroom which in itself is a modest museum, with everything planned to stimulate the interest of his pupils.

It is a classroom with hundreds of pictures and exhibits some of which Saba has supplied himself, and others of which are the inspiration of his pupils.

Every pupil in his room has a front room seat, a fact which originally drew the attention of the Town Crier, last spring and which resulted in photographs that appeared in this paper last June.

No Laggards

Saba will and does spend many hours, after school, in a unique method of stimulating his pupils interest in their studies. He might not possibly be described as the most popular teacher in school, for he doesn't court popularity, but without a doubt he is without an enemy among the pupil body.

He is the type of teacher who will go to any extreme, in coaching and teaching, to make sure that even the dulllest pupil finds the subject interesting and inspiring. His approach to a subject is a quiet man-to-man one, inspiring a sense of comradeship among the class, and, what is more important, making a pupil who is low in his marks ashamed of himself, and resolved to better them.

In fact, 'flunking' pupils are very rare in any class which Bob Saba teaches.

Arabic Speaker

Saba was one of the few people in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts who was a dinner guest of the fabulous Ibn Saud, King of Arabia, last spring when that Arab potentate was a guest in a Boston hospital, and later in a Boston hotel.

Saba was invited because he speaks Arabic. He comes by the language naturally, for he is of Syrian descent, although not a Moslem.

He is the President of St. George's (Syrian Orthodox) Church in his home town of Lowell, and is on the Board of Directors of the Orthodox Church of North America.

Other Achievements

His list of achievements is impressive.

Because of his work in his church Saba is to be a Lay Delegate to the forthcoming Ecumenical Council of Churches (cont. Pg. 8)

HEALTH BOARD MAY PROSECUTE GARBAGE DUMPERS

The habit of mixing garbage and other refuse into the materials taken in the town dump in South Wilmington may get a sudden check from the Board of Health.

Mrs Marion Boylen, Chairman of the Board, told Clarence Spinazola, owner of the town dump, to report the numbers of automobiles in which the driver is violating dump and or health rules.

Spinazola is to report directly to the Board of Health Mrs Boylen said, and added, rather grimly 'We'll take care of them'.

Two Hour Conference

The statement by Mrs Boylen came at the end of a two hour discussion during the regular Health Board meeting Monday night, in which all angles of (Cont. Pg. 6)

WEBTEX STARTS EXPANSION OF PLANT

The Webtex Company, which moved into Wilmington on April 1st of this year, after six years of planning, has started the construction of an addition to its Woburn Street plant.

The fine modern building with 40,000 square feet area will have another 15,000 feet in area before the cold weather sets in, according to a company spokesman. Concrete flooring has already been poured for the new addition.

Webtex moved from Cambridge on April 1st, after the construction of the new plant, over which its president, Frank L Stevens, had a personal supervision. At the same time the company, which dates back to 1848, changed its name from the W. Webster Cement Co. by which it was formerly known.

The company manufactures specialty adhesives of all types, ranging roof coatings to automobile under-coatings.

There are three Webtex plants in the United States, one in Baltimore being larger than the Wilmington plant, and one in Los Angeles (Southgate) California being about the same size as Wilmington's. The Wilmington plant employs about 65 people, most of whom moved to Wilmington from the Cambridge plant, which is no longer used as a manufactory.

THE NAME IS MCCORMACK

Gail McCormack of Lake Street is an enthusiastic booster of namesake (but no relative) Ed McCormack, attorney General of Massachusetts, in his efforts to win the Democratic Nomination for US Senator, in the September primaries. Gail's mother, Bea, has just been appointed Wilmington Town Co-ordinator of the McCormack for Senator Campaign.

NON KOSHER BETTERMENTS

In the ancient days of the Hebrews, when the Mosaic Law was being observed for the first time, the Tribes of Israel were kept from meat that was possibly unfit for human consumption by elaborate rules which today are still with us, and are known more or less colloquially as "Kosher".

Kosher meat is meat that is guaranteed to be prepared according to rituals that keep the meat fit for human consumption.

Brings forth its shocks;

Will it become

Non-Kosher meat today is probably just as clean and edible, but if not prepared according to the ritual it not "Kosher", although perhaps the average person could not tell the difference, providing of course that it wasn't ham. The Town Crier used the word "Kosher" last week in describing how the Street Betterments

TOWN NOTES

A Little Rain

After a couple of rainless weeks, Wilmington was treated to a quarter of an inch, in a shower Tuesday night, although the measurement at the pumping station was but .18 inches.

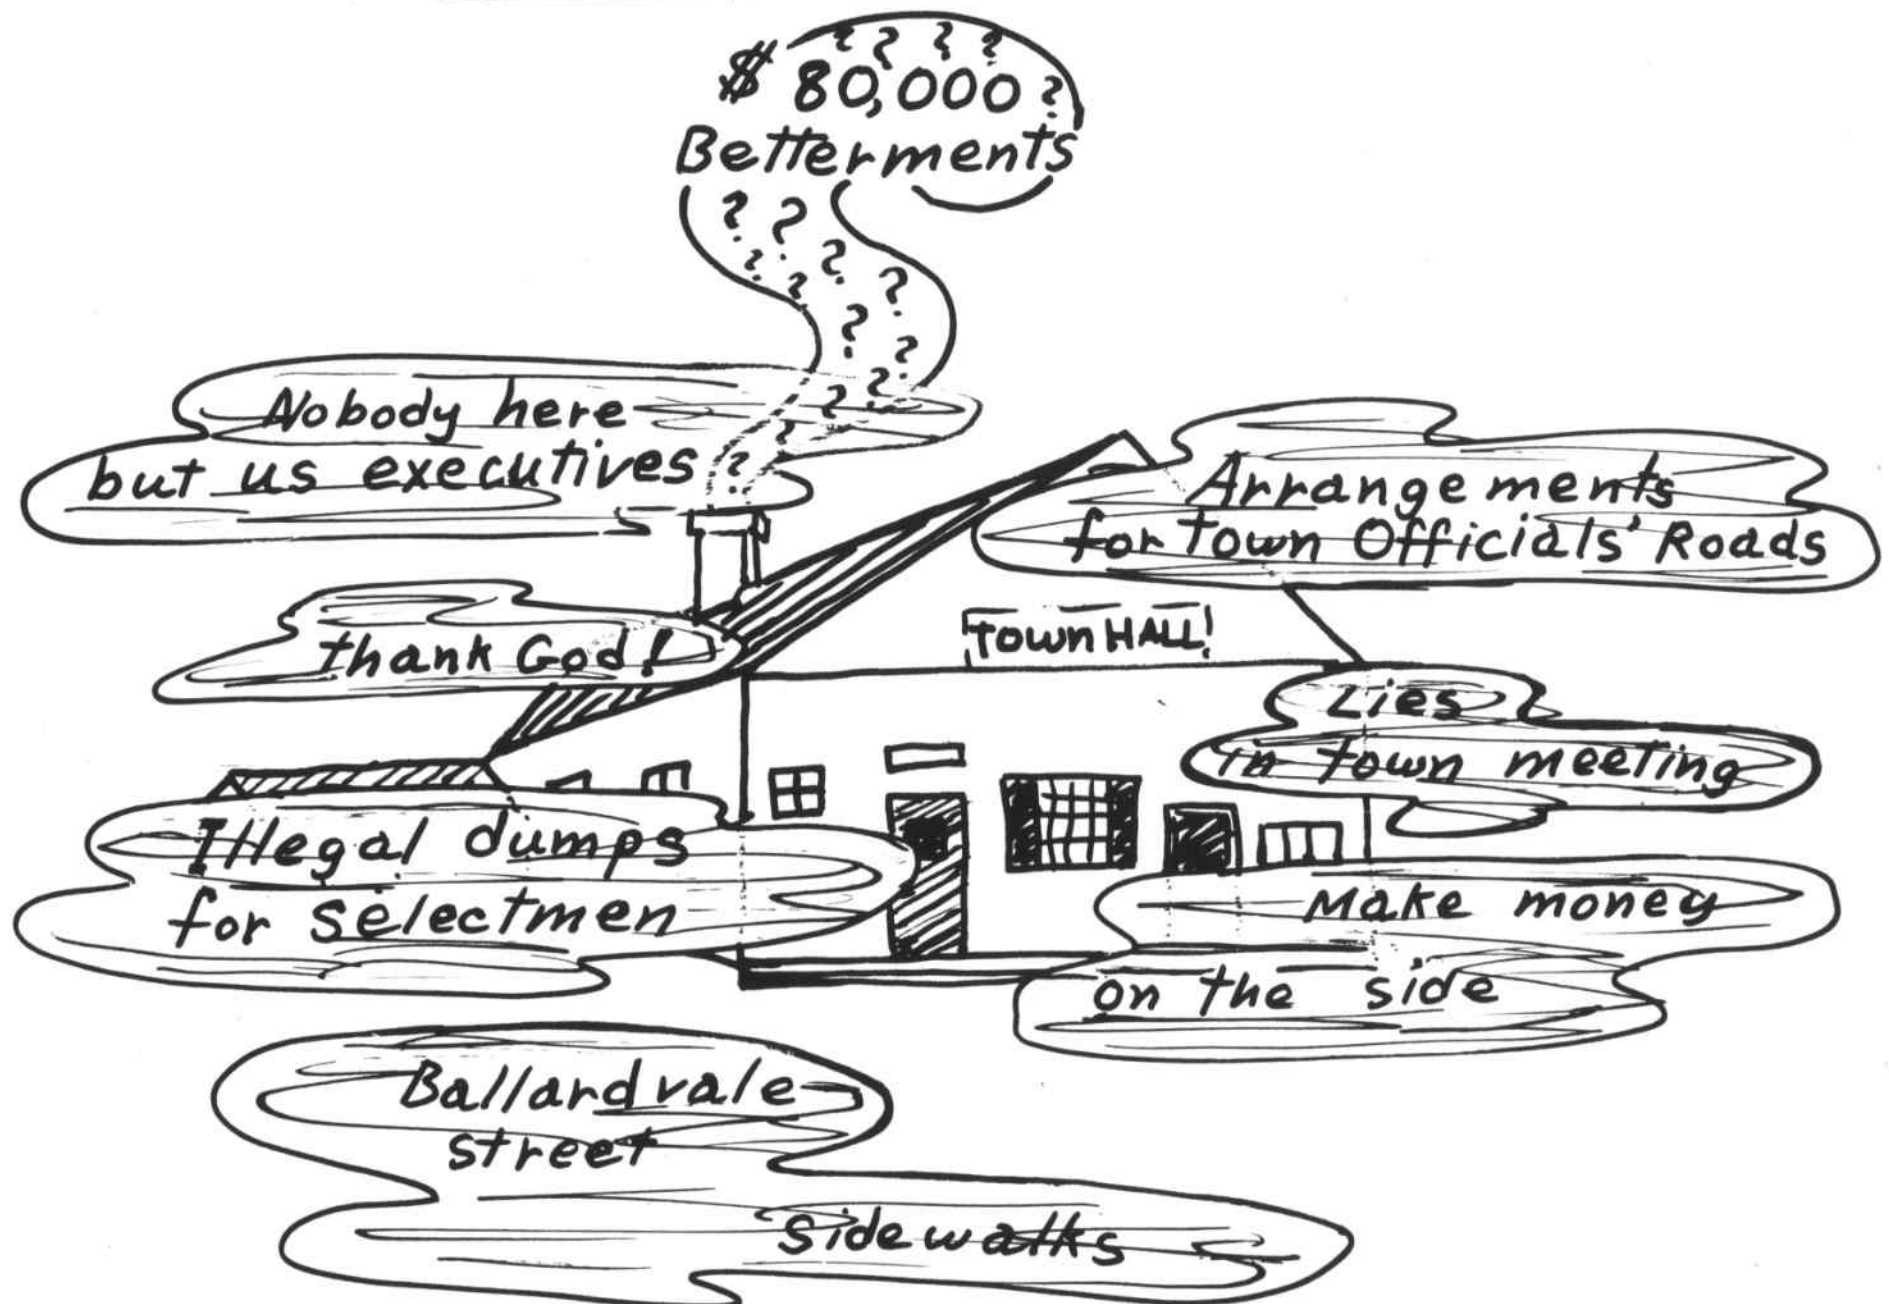

There had been .02 inches on August 1st, which brings us up to 1/5 of an inch for the month - not much, when one considers that there was only 2.41 inches in July.

Mean Thief Again

Maybe it's the guy who has been stealing the Christmas Tree Lights, from the tree on the Common, each year.

Anyway someone, in the past week or so, has taken the guy wires which were holding up the Christmas Tree that Herb Barrows gave to the town, in his last will.

The wires have to remain for the roots to get firmly established, and the Wilmington Tree Department has its fingers crossed, hoping that the tree had time enough to keep in place without toppling over in the first wind storm.

Undefeated Team!

It was the Post Office Nine against the K of Cs, last week with Cagy Sam Ethier as umpire and the Post Office boys emerged victorious after a long struggle over seven innings.

The reader is able to imagine how the game went when we mention that the score was 17 to 16.

The Post Office Nine is the only undefeated team in Wilmington at the present time, and as such a challenge has been issued by Capt. Joe Woods to all comers in the realm of baseball in northern Middlesex County, including Greer's.

"Our team has got what it takes" says Capt. Joe Woods. With my brother Dick on second base, Bobby Butters on Center Field, and myself on the pitcher's mound we don't need any other players. We can take care of any hit, anywhere on the field.

"Provided", he added, "that Cagy Sam is the umpire!"

of Wilmington were prepared, by our Board of Selectmen.

The streets are there - the money has been spent - but the Selectmen didn't observe the laws and rituals which govern the preparation of Betterment Streets, and there is consequently a good question as to whether or not the money was legally spent - and whether or not the abutters on the streets will have to pay.

The laws governing the acceptance of streets under the Betterment Plan are confusing to the layman, and even to the gentlemen in the legal profession. A mistake, it has often been said, will mean that the money is spent illegally, and that the people who were supposed to have to pay can go off scot free.

Our former Principal Assessor, Alfred Calabrese, prepared a synopsis of those laws, listing each action that had to be performed, and warning that, if certain things were not done the result would be "fatal". There were a total of 13 steps that had to be taken, almost all of which were "mandatory", in Calabrese's work.

When other towns and cities heard of the work of Calabrese they wrote for copies of his work. It was referred to, on one or two occasions as the "Wilmington Plan".

Wilmington's Selectmen gladly sent copies of Calabrese's work to the other towns who had requested it. Calabrese, twice, was the featured speaker at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Assessors, at the University of Massachusetts, where he expounded on the laws of Betterments, and the penalties for not observing them.

Whether or not the mistakes of our Selectmen will be "fatal" is something that only time and possibly the courts will tell, but this much is certain.

Other towns and cities are using the Wil-

JAYCEES PLAN COFFEE WATCH FOR LABOR DAY ON ROUTE 93

Wilmington and Tewksbury Chapters of the Junior Chamber of Commerce have combined to repeat last years' successful Route 93 Coffee Roadwatch over the Labor Day Weekend.

From 7 pm to 2 am free coffee will be offered to northbound motorists on Friday and Saturday, and to southbound motorists on Sunday and Monday. Illuminated signs will alert drivers approaching the Roadwatch site, where the Jaycees of both towns will serve them.

A joint committee is making necessary preparations to provide about 3000 cups of coffee and letters are on the way to Gov. Volpe, Registrar Clement Riley and Commissioner of Public Safety Frank Giles, and other officials advising them of the project.

Donations are to be solicited - coffee in 12 or 24 pound lots, cups and stirrers by the thousand, sugar and cream - and then the long busy weekend.

The Jaycees are proud that last year there was not one auto on Route 93 over the Labor Day weekend. This year, on other highways in the Commonwealth, other chapters are undertaking the Roadwatch originated by the Tewksbury Jaycees.

LETTER

Dear Larz:

Being a widow of 77 years I have for several years tried to cope with the high cost of living, including the ever rising real estate tax.

I would like to draw the votes attention to the two following situations: A widow or widower who sells her property puts his money into the bank or invests in securities to draw interest. If admitted to a unit of the Old Peoples Project she will pay $45 monthly rent which includes tax, upkeep, insurance, heat, water, snow removal and grass cutting. One can easily call this Janitor service. All that is left for her to pay is the electricity and telephone bill.

On the other hand a widow who tries to keep her home receives an ever larger tax bill each year, besides having to meet all her other expenses, which are also inclined to go higher. Her income does not increase.

In these days of high earnings many people may not realize that snow removal, etc can be a serious problem, but it is.

Also, without a penny's expense, four or more of the inhabitants of the Old People's Project can any evening in the week have a large, pleasant hall heated and lighted for card playing or other amusement. Personally I think this is an unnecessary waste.

I have been told by one person living in this project that it involves no expense whatsoever to the taxpayers. This is very interesting - where does the money come from? Even the Federal Government does not take any money out of its own pocket to pay for the citizens' betterment.

There is the JUSTICE in the treatment of these two classes of old people?

In the real estate tax of course a big item is schooling and education. Many persons, 75-80 years of age, are now paying for the third generations' education, which are from bond issues, compared to education of two generations ago. No one now can imagine or understand the sacrifices and hardships parents and students had to endure, especially during the depression, in order for the student to achieve a higher education.

I have heard from good sources that the state of North Carolina has a law that after a person has retired his or her tax cannot be increased. This is a common sense law which should be copied in other states, and in towns and cities.

After retiring many persons do not have much more than their social security checks. How are they going to meet the ever rising living expenses?

Taxpayer in Wilmington for 50 years

1. Strictly speaking there has been no cost to the taxpayers of Wilmington as of this moment for the Old Age Housing project, but this is because the final accounts have yet to be settled, because of law suit involving the construction.

The Veterans Housing on Wildwood Street, for instance, gets an annual subsidy from the Commonwealth of $4950, and pays a sum of $73.70 'in lieu of taxes' on the land, nothing on the buildings. The money is computed on the land as it was before construction of the houses.

A similar arrangement will be made without doubt for the Old Age Housing project, when the accounts are finally settled.

2. The Town of Wilmington adopted a Town Manager Plan of government for the purposes of watching the spending of town money.

In the past few years there hasn't been much watching.

LETTER

July 31, 1962

Dear Larz:

I am writing this to you because, in a way, we are in a similar 'business' - that of reporting the news! (Gospel means 'Good News'.)

Seriously, there are some literary matters that have come to my attention during the past several months which I have an urgent desire to share with you and your readers. Actually, they are more than literary in their implications because they touch very deeply the lives of all of us in this and most communities today. But at first they will sound only literary.

In the June 8, 1962 issue of Time Magazine, a book was reviewed which is having a profound influence on Roman Catholic-Protestant relations all over the world. It was a book called 'THE COUNCIL, REFORM

AND REUNION' by a young Swiss Roman Catholic theologian. He happens to be the foremost Catholic interpreter of the great Swiss Protestant theologian, Karl Barth, (whom some folks will remember as having caused quite a stir when he visited the United States for the first - and probably the last - time last spring). Kung's book is so important that it tops the list of recommended reading in TRENDS, the official publication of the Faith and Order division of the World Council of Churches. The review in Trends said, in part: 'If ever there was a Roman Catholic book that Protestants and orthodox should read, this is it'.

Great interest is astir in the whole of Christendom because of the coming Ecumenical Council called by Pope John XXIII. In this great book, Kung states many of the Pope's expressed hopes and objectives for this Council. He corrects many unfactual beliefs of both overly pessimistic and overly optimistic Protestants and Catholics. More important is the historical survey which backs up Kung's call to the whole Church's (Catholic, Protestant, orthodox or otherwise) penitent and perpetual renewal - not trying to call God's Hand by positing the future results, but calling each Church to look at itself in the light of Holy Scripture, the living Christ, and the working Holy Spirit.

Perhaps the best possible service I can render, Mr. Editor, at this one writing, is to quote a few samples of things being said by leading Roman Catholic and Protestant theologians and scholars, (among them one of Kung's) in very recent works, without identifying them! Can anyone detect which is Catholic and which Protestant - unless, of course, they have had the privilege and excitement of reading the books from which they are taken, and thereby recognize them?

'Today, for instance, the reconciliation of the various parties and sections of the Christian Church is not only desirable but imperative. The obstacles to that reunion are multifarious, but one of the greatest of them is that every part of disunited Christendom interprets its past through an image of itself and holds fast without repentance to that image. . . . We cannot become integrated parts of one common church until we each remember our whole past, with its sins, through Jesus Christ and appropriate each other's pasts. There will be no union of Catholics and Protestants until through common memory of Jesus Christ the former repent of the sin of Peter and the latter of the sin of Luther, until Protestants acknowledge Thomas Aquinas as one of their fathers, the Inquisition as their own sin and Ignatius Loyola as one of their own Reformers, until Catholic have canonized Luther and Calvin, done repentance for Protestant nationalism, and appropriated Schleiermacher and Barth as their theologians. . . . We need a larger pattern, a more inclusive hypothesis through which to understand each other's and our own memories. Such a pattern we have in the revelation of Jesus Christ. In Him we see the sin of man, not of some men; in him we find the faith of man, not of Protestant or Catholics, of Lutherans or Presbyterians. He reveals the faith and the sin of all the fathers of all the churches; through him we can repent of our own fathers' sins and gratefully adopt as our own the faithful, sinful fathers of those from whom we are now separated.'

(II) 'The 'approach' takes place on the basis of what we hold strongly in common. Our separated brethren are already brethren. There is already a deep communion, koinonia, between them and us; it is founded upon one baptism, faith in one Lord, and love for him; and it is stronger and more important than anything that separates us. We are Christians and they are Christians. They too bear the name of Christ upon their foreheads, they read his holy and blessed Gospel, and they are not unresponsive to the stirrings of religious devotion and of active, beneficent love of their neighbor.' What we need for reunion is that this communion which already exists should grow. What we need is that both sides should create more and more common ground between us, until at last what separates us becomes insignificant and full unity is a reality.'

(III) 'Justification through 'faith alone' bespeaks the complete incapacity and incompetence of man for any sort of self-justification. In justification the sinner cannot give

FATHER CROKE TO CELEBRATE MASS ON TV NEXT SUNDAY

The Rev. Edmund C. Croke, pastor of St. Thomas of Villanova Church, is to celebrate Mass at 9:15 am next Sunday over Channel 7, TV.

Father Croke will be accompanied by Mrs. Estelle Shelly, St. Thomas organist and choir leader, and the St. Thomas Choir, and a few youngsters of the parish are to go along to watch the ceremony, and afterwards see the TV station.

The Channel 7 program is sponsored by the Woburn Deanery of the Holy Name Society.

LITTLE LEAGUE ELECTION

Wilmington Little League is to hold an Election of the Board of Trustees, in the DAV Hall on Grove Ave. on August 22nd at 8 pm. The nominating committee consists of Chairman Jim Tildsley, Al Kasabuski, Joe Hennessey and Tony, everyone

Any person interested in the league is welcome to submit names for nomination, and can do so by calling any of the nominating committee members. The officers for the league for the coming year will be elected by the newly formed board at their first meeting, and it will be necessary for all board members to be present at that meeting.

Tentative plans have been made for the Little League banquet to be held early in October. Exact details will be decided on at a later date.

PETE EMERY

After being out of the pitcher's box for two years because of a case of 'Little League Elbow', Peter Emery of Lake Street pitched the last game for the Wildcats of the Pony League team, against the Dee Pharmacy, of Reading, Saturday, winning 8 - 2. Pete also hit the homer that started Wilmington on its winning streak.

Representative Frank D. Tanner will be seeking nomination for re-election to a seventh consecutive two-year term in the Legislature.
Representative Tanner has never been defeated in either local or district elections. Mr. Tanner is a graduate of Lawrence Academy, where he still serves as trustee,
and attended Boston University Law School. He also served the Town of Reading as a member of the School Committee, Finance Committee, and Municipal Light Board.

KENNETH C. LATHAM

Attorney Kenneth C. Latham has been Reading's Moderator of the past 4 years. In 1942, he was elected a Reading Selectman and served in that capacity for 15 years, 12 of those years as Chairman of the Board. This will be Mr. Latham's first bid for district election.

WILLIAM L. SMITH

Mr. William L. Smith will seek elective office for the first time.
He has been a resident of Reading for 13 years. Mr. Smith has a private law practice in Reading and Boston. He received his law degree from Northeastern University.

GARBAGE DUMPERS

the operation of the town dump on the Spinazola property were quite thoroughly explored.

The dump is operated on contract by Spinazola, on a 160 acre tract of land he owns in South Wilmington. He receives $15,500 a year as part of the contract.

The dump is open to Wilmington residents and businessmen only, Tuesday through Sunday, 9 am to 4 pm.

Mr. Spinazola is not to allow garbage to be included in the materials dumped, according to the Board of Health rules.

The original contract called for no burning on the property as all wooden materials were to be taken to Abigail's Island, in North Wilmington for burning there.

Change in Rules

It was developed in the conversation Monday night that burning is and will be necessary at the Spinazola property.

The Board of Health told Spi-nazola to do his burnings on Monday mornings, if possible.

Spinazola does not want to burn on days that could be hazardous, he told the board, and hence may not be able to burn on some Mondays.

Monday was preferable because that is the day the dump is closed to the public, but if the weather is too dry or too windy Spinazola would rather wait for a better opportunity to burn.

The wood is being brought to the Spinazola dump is because the Wilmington Board of Water Commissioners closed off Abigail's Island (which is in the middle of the town's water shed) after it developed that residents and others were leaving tin cans and garbage on the island.

Some place had to be found in which wood, stumps, etc could be disposed of, and an arrangement was made between the Board of Health and Spinazola, over and above his regular contract, which is for a sanitary land fill operation.

Violators

Spinazola told the Board of his troubles with persons who insist on dumping forbidden materials in the dump.

Often, he said, people rent a trailer, load it with household trash, garbage, and other materials, and then put old boards on top, and drive to his dump.

The attendant sees the old boards, figures it should go to the 'burning pile' and only after the garbage is on the ground is it realized that the error has been made.

His attempts to 'police' the dumping brought out events that were both humorous and otherwise.

Often, when people find they have materials that cannot be dumped (one of the reasons being that they arrive when the dump is 'closed') they dump outside the property.

Other times, too, Spinazola finds that they attempt to get rid of bodies of animals, dogs, etc (the disposal of dogs is the function of the dog officer). They become very incensed when Spinazola refuses to allow the dumping of forbidden items.

Spinazola had his sympathy for some of the men whom he has had to refuse.

'Perhaps', he said, 'they have finally cleaned up the yard after six months of nagging by their wives. They they arrive at the dump and are told that certain things cannot be dumped! That makes them fit to be tied'.

He related that one time one of the men arrived on a Sunday morning, and learning that the dump couldn't accept garbage he grabbed Spinazola's shirt and shook Spinazola.

Spinazola lost a couple of buttons, but shook the incident off as 'one of those things', only to have the man return later with a couple of police officers, and demand that Spinazola 'apologize'.
He didn't.

anything which he does not receive from grace. The attitude of simple trusting submission under God's gracious judgement is faith, which does not even appeal to its own self, its deed or its attitude, which would only be the craftiest kind of 'glorying' (1 Cor. 4:7; Rom. 4:20). Thus no work, not even a work of love, justifies man, but only faith, justified through God himself. This faith as a gracious gift of God is not achievement through works, but rather self-surrender to God, an abandonment by grace to the grace of God as a response to the act of God. This basic human act as a reception of the kerygma is simultaneously insight (Rom. 5:3; 6:8 f; 2 Cor. 1:7; 4:13 f; 5:6) and trust (Gal. 3:6; 4:3; 2 Cor. 1:9); it is simultaneously recognition, acknowledgement and profession of faith, and includes fear (Rom. 11:20-25; 2 Cor. 5:11) as well as hope (Rom. 4:18; 5:5).

Nothing I have said here, Larz, represents my church's official stand, but only my own opinions.

DELEGATES RETURN FROM

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES ASSEMBLY

The Wilmington-Tewksbury delegation to the 'Courageous Ministers' District Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses, led by Robert S. Jones, Presiding Minister, has returned home from the Manchester NH assembly.

Climax of the weekend seminar was an address on Sunday by Nathan H. Knorr, Watchtower Society president, on the subject 'Take Courage - God's Kingdom is at Hand'. 6,231 persons heard the sessions in the New Hampshire National Guard Armory. A mass baptism by complete immersion of 98 persons was a feature of Sunday's program.

The Forrestal is to have a home port in Naples, Italy, but will visit many ports during the next seven months.

BIRTHS

KRISTAL, Kenneth Warren, 2nd son, born on July 22 to Mr and Mrs Edward Kristal of Newburgh New York.

Grandparents are Mr and Mrs. Philip Gardner of 281 Main St. Wilmington and Mr David Kristal of Mattapan.

WILLIAMSON, Charles Douglas, first child, to Mr and Mrs Charles Williamson, 7 High St. in Winchester Hospital, June 29th.

Grandparents are Mr and Mrs Daniel Sullivan of Border Ave. Wilmington, and Mrs Mabel Williamson of Somerville.

PRESCHOOL REGISTRATION IN WILMINGTON PUBLIC SCHOOLS

All children not registered for Grade I in the Wilmington Public School System, but who will be six years of age on or before December 31, 1962, and all transfers from other towns are required to register at the High School on the following dates, from 9:00 am to 4pm August 22 - All children whose names begin with letters A - M.

August 23 - All children whose names begin with letters N - Z.

All children are required by State Law to have in their possession at the time of registration for first grade a legal birth certificate obtained from the town in which they were born, a certificate of successful vaccination, or letter from a physician stating that a vaccination cannot be given due to the health of the child. This is a State requirement.

The School Department urgently requests parents not to wait until the opening day of school to register, since this will mean last minute changes in grade and school placement, bus transportation, and classroom loads, resulting in much inconvenience to all concerned.

He is a permanent member of the UNESCO Commission of the United Nations, appointed in 1956, and received a plaque from the United Nations in that year for his outstanding United Nations program and work in Wilmington High School.

His work as a Social Studies teacher was recognized several years ago, when he became an Associate Instructor at the Greater Boston International Institute, where social workers get training and guidance in case work, and he is a member of the Massachusetts Division of Social Work Guidance. A graduate of Boston University (AB) he teaches evenings in the Boston University Night School. He received both a Master of Science and a Master of Education from Springfield College.

Citation

Part of the letter which Mr. Saba received reads:

'In you particular case we have investigated your teaching methods, your many efforts in helping your students with more than mere classroom teaching, and also your unselfish devotion in helping others. Many other points can be mentioned: your election as president of your local church and the entire Archdiocese of North America, your work with the United Nations, your work as a board member of the International Institute and many other such note-worthy efforts, have also been of value in our judgement and selection as one of the ten outstanding teachers of Secondary Schools, 1962.'

DR. KIERNAN CONGRATULATES WILMINGTON ON SABA'S ACHIEVEMENT

In a message to the Town Crier, Dr. Owen Kiernan, Massachusetts Director of the Department of Education, has congratulated the Town of Wilmington on the achievement of Robert Saba, High School teacher in being named one of the top ten teachers of the nation.

Dr Kiernan's message read: 'It gives me great pleasure to announce that the Massachusetts Department of Education has received confirmation from the Board of Trustees of the Lincoln Library and Museum in Springfield, Illinois, said confirmation indicates that Mr Robert Saba, a member of the Wilmington Social Studies Department at Wilmington High School has been selected as one of the top outstanding educators in the U.S.A.'

My congratulations to Mr Saba and to the Town of Wilmington in achieving, for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, nationwide recognition'.

Among the many offers made to Saba in the past week is one of Assistant Dean at the University of Massachusetts, from the Massachusetts Department of Education.

LIFE IN THE OPEN

Girl Scouts of Wilmington, Tewksbury and Billerica are enjoying the 10th annual Day Camp (Wigisdaca) at Camp Forty Acres. This group, known as the Caribbean Belles, are having lunch under a tent shade.

On the side nearest the camera are Sandra O'Brien and Robeeta Turner of Billerica and Fay De Avignon, 17 Church Street. Opposite are: Mrs Sandra Dindo, Roberts Road; Donna Kirby of Wildwood Street and Joanne Miller of Hathaway Road.

BAKING A CAKE

Three Girl Scouts, at Camp Wigisdaca, Camp Forty Acres, bake a cake using an aluminum reflector oven, and a huge rock as a fireplace. It's a blueberry cake, with fresh picked blueberries. L to R. Mary King, Wilmington; Lorraine Arsenaux, Billerica, and Darlene Bryn, of Marie Drive. Darlene is also cooking a hot-dog over the embers.
